Dear Asian American Association,

Hello! My name is Ana Sucaldito, I am an Asian-American graduate student in the College of Public Health at The Ohio State University. I am recruiting Asian-American undergraduates for a paid research study focused on parent-child relationships and mental health and was wondering if you would be willing to let me come to one of your meetings to speak to your students and/or share my recruitment flyer with your students?

As part of my dissertation research, I am conducting virtual focus groups with students to assess/improve the readability, relevance, and accuracy of tools used to describe Asian-American parent-child relationships. Improving these tools would help us better understand the impacts that familial relationships on the mental health of Asian-American college students, allowing us to create more culturally humble mental health care. Each student would receive a $25 gift card in appreciation of their participation---focus groups are expected to last no longer than one hour and will be scheduled at a time convenient to the participants.

If possible, I would love to come speak to your organization about my research and/or have you share this information with them via email, social media, etc. (I have included a blurb and flyer below). Please let me know your thoughts!

Thank you!

Ana Sucaldito

Parent-child relationships are often major sources of strength and stress for Asian-American college students. Understanding this relationship from an Asian-American lens is an important step to understanding its effect on Asian-American college students' mental health. Receive $25 gift card to participate in a 1 hour Zoom focus group to provide feedback on the best methods to measure and understand the Asian-American parent- child relationship!
